The Clarion

Oxford High School Magazine

The Oxford High School publication is well arranged and contains material of interest to every student, alumnus and friend of the school. This issue was dedicated to the citizens of Oxford.

There are timely editorials in that section; well written stories and poems in the literary department and numerous school notes of interest. Jokes under the head "Brite Lites" are humorous breaks and wise sayings heard during the year.

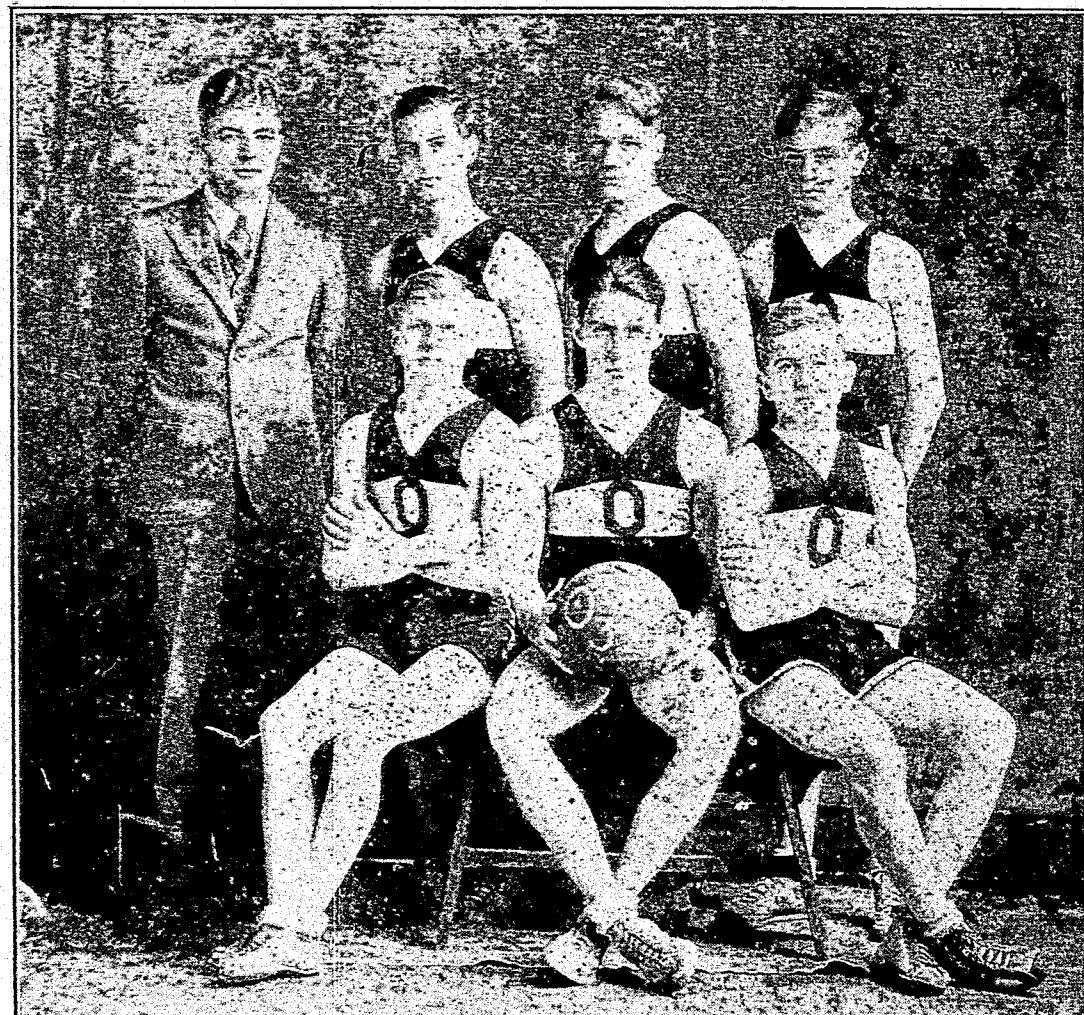

Pages devoted to sports carry complete summaries of boys' and girls' basketball games played during the winter. Both teams did excellent work and snatched more than the lion's share.

Among the half tones are pictures of the Clarion board; the graduating class; the debating team and boys' and girls' ball teams.

Mrs. A. Wills of Oxford village spent the afternoon of the 19th with Mrs. E. E. Twitchell.

Alvin Lovejoy is the busy man these days, selling his plants. We see load after load going by from there.

On Friday, the 20th, Mrs. Lawrence Brown took the car and her mother and Flora Cummings, also Mildred and Ruth Twitchell, to South Livermore to an all day meeting. It proved a beautiful day. They met friends from Auburn and Bridgton, as well as the South Livermore folks.

As we go riding by the Stearns house we hear the tap, tap of the hammer as he makes the inside improvements.

Mrs. Leon Twitchell, who was sick, recently, is on the mend.

Mrs. E. B. Twitchell spent Saturday night, May 21, in Millettsville, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown.

Mrs. Leon Twitchell opened her tea room last week for the summer. Louise Twitchell is the clerk.

Rev. Adrian Walcott of Mechanic Falls was a caller at Al Twitchell's, the 20th.

Miss Mildred Smith of Oxford hung Miss Marion Twitchell a maybasket the evening of the 25th.

Another accident took place on this street, recently, when the horse of many years ago forgot its age and frolicked about near Al Twitchell's white barn, throwing Elmer Twitchell out. The fruit remained undisturbed though the wagon was considerably demolished, one wheel completely smashed. But to peddle was the order of the day and soon another wagon was hitched to the one time Old Prince and on their way they went.

Miss Retha Glover called on friends the 24th, on this street.

Baseball

Lost Championship in Fatal Seventh

Stephens High School at Rumford won the county baseball championship by defeating Norway, 6 to 4, Friday afternoon. Norway High had the game in hand 4 to 3, at the beginning of the seventh. A pitching error was a good cause for calling the game at that time, but playing continued. The Rumford boys cleaned up four runs with no hits during their half of the seventh. Fielding errors were miserable and excusable misplays provided the runs.

Norway outbait their opponents, Coffin made a home run, McCready, a three sacker and Lafrance a two-bagger, making eight with a total of fourteen.

Norway, in winning from Paris last week, went into a tie with Rumford for first place in the county league made up of Gould Academy, Mexico, Rumford and South Paris.

Losing the game, Friday, leaves a large question mark and doubts. Speculating on what might have happened had rain held off, leaves a feeling that the final result might have been more favorable to Norway. The boys accept the bad break with a smile and extend congratulations to the winner.

The baseball team played nine games and lost only two, both to Stephens High at Rumford. They made 67 scores to opponents' 46 and ended with a high batting average. Scores follow:

Musical Activities

The girls glee club, twenty-two members, and the orchestra of thirteen boys and girls in a well balanced instrumentation, Miss Eleanor Wood, conductor, both, added a great deal to the assembly programs. Both organizations appeared at public entertainments and won many complimentary notices. The orchestra played for the Norway-Paris Kivniss Club and for a number of dramatic productions, besides assisting at church entertainments. The team made second place in their class and won a cup at the State Musical Contest held at Camden, recently.

Other Activities

The Commercial Club had twenty-six paid-up members, although many more attended the meetings. A newsy paper photographed regularly, "The Commercial Club News" was not only a feature in the school, but an incentive to develop latent literary talents.

A Latin Club was organized in the fall and named "Manus Latine". They also had a club paper edited by a competent staff and photographed by the Commercial Club. Miss Edith Clark was advisor.

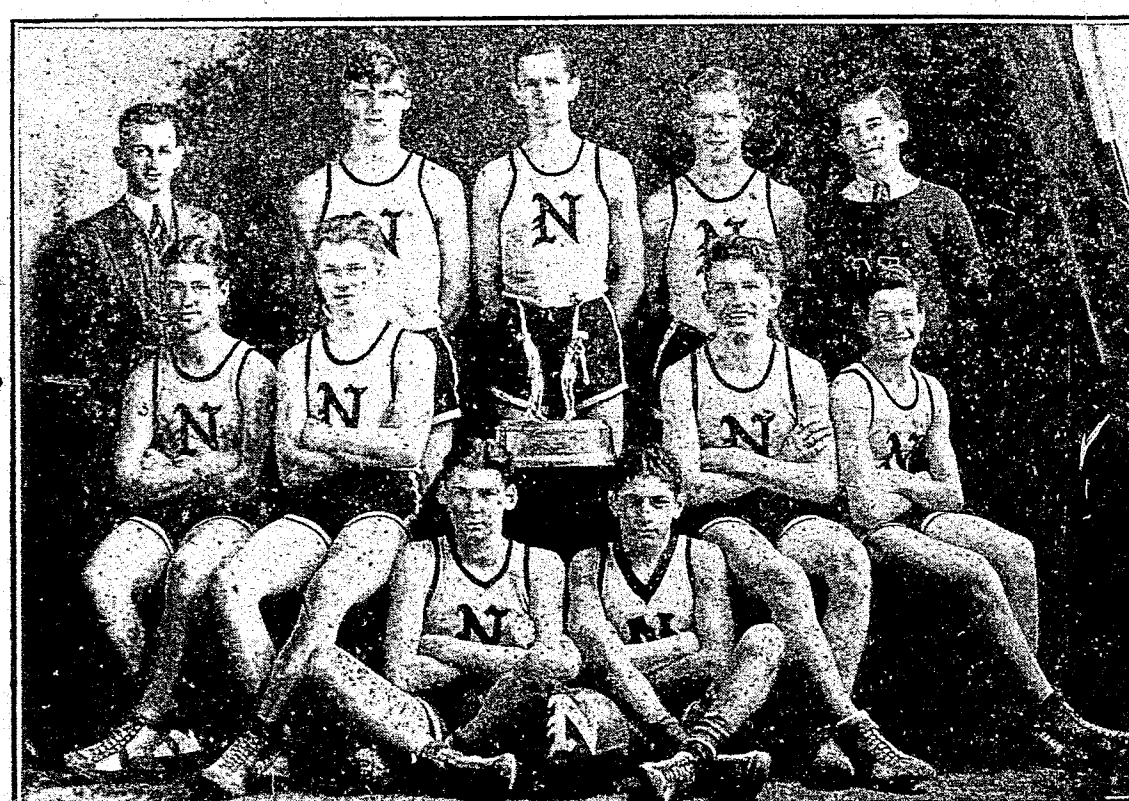

Over in Edward H. Brown's agricultural department, the boys had a class organization largely for good fellowship and some basket ball. They formed the Norway Future Farmer Chapter of the national organization and held meetings every two weeks with Arthur Cummings, State Reporter. The club had a class ride; a sightseeing trip; graded the high school grounds; and a hundred percent finish of projects.

The Student Council functioned in a practical way with the senior, junior and sophomore classes represented. A committee supervised the preparations for the annual fair, also was in charge of weekly copy for the newspaper. One assembly was carried out successfully and a few dances for beginners was arranged in the gym.

Dramatic Club

Season's Work in the Club

This important feature for self expression closes its third year. Regular meetings have been held with an organization, Paul Brown, president; Dorothy Glatley, vice president; Maxine Richardson, secretary, and Margaret Bradbury, treasurer.

One-act plays were studied and a comprehensive knowledge of stagecraft secured. One meeting was devoted to grease paint makeup with demonstrations of lighting effects. Scenery was built, costumes designed and a dramatic room fitted up in the grammar school building.

Among the short plays produced were "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde, "The Baggage" by "Christmas Eve" and the "Maker of Dreams".

The Caduceus

The School Magazine

An unusually interesting and well edited magazine is the June number of The Caduceus issued by the students of Norway High School.

Fifty pages are devoted to school work, including a Junior High school section. There are original editorials, stories, school happenings, including activities of the Student Council, Dramatic Club, Commercial Club, Latin Club, Glee Club and orchestra and Norway Future Farmer Chapter.

Of course jokes are there and are to the point, many having a local color, which mean a lot to the initiated.

Major sports occupy a prominent place with a comprehensive survey of football, basketball, winter contests, track events and girls' archery.

Exchanges and Comments show a long list of schools are exchanging magazines with Norway and write favorable comments on the amount and high quality of the Caduceus.

The alumni section includes in the issue the classes of 1881, 1891, 1896, 1901, 1906, 1911, 1916, 1921, 1926 and 1931.

Half tones are used freely and set the board of editors, student council, girls' glee club, orchestra, football eleven, winter sports team, boys' and girls' basketball teams and thirty-nine individual pictures of the graduating class.

Eighteen pages contain the advertisements of merchants, business places and professional offices in Norway and South Paris, which helped materially in producing the magazine.

Copies will be on sale at Norway Opera House this Thursday night and may be procured any time at the news stands.

Home Economics

A vast amount of practical work was done during the school year, under the able instruction of Mrs. Emma Ledger. Every student in the department appeared intensely interested, whether cooking in the domestic science room or making house dresses, sewing chairs, decorating and painting. The attractive exhibit at Z. L. Merchant's store was a revelation and called attention to a branch of school activities not so well known to the average taxpayer.

Last Chapel Services

The student body joined in the last chapel at the Congregational Church, on Wednesday morning at 10:30. After the procession, an order of exercises was conducted by the seniors, as follows:
Singing, "America"
Scripture Reading and Lord's Prayer
Prayer
School Songs
Address to Undergraduates
Singing, "Star Spangled Banner"
Awards and Letters
Recessional
Singing, "Auld Lang Syne"
